English Cattle at Auction.

O' Monday the 20th day of October next, will be sold without reserve, a choice stock of CATTLE for breeding, being the entire stock of the subscriber, who has given great attenton for several years past in selecting the best animals that could be procured in this state, for that object—they are principally from the stock of Peebles, Hume, Inskeep, Smith, and Crockett, with the young cattle of his own raising, and are now sold not from choice but ne essity; there are no cattle in the state superior to them, either in form, color or blood. Far-mers and graziers, who have not this breed of cattle, will at this sale, have an opportunity of supplying themselves; those who have them know their value, and will no doubt enlarge their stock. A steer of the improved breed, will fetch from the butcher at 3 years old, double the money that a steer of four years old will of the common breed, whereby a year's keep of the animal is saved, the risk of life for a year, and double the sum is put into the farmer's pocket, one year sooner, which is another saving or gain of the interest-and further, this breed of cattle gives a greater quantity of milk. In no country in the world, do butter and cheese bear as high a price as in this, compared with the price of grain. The stock consists of 150 head, amongst which are some choice MILCH COWS, HEIFERS, CALVES and FOUNG BULLS. Sale to commence at 12 o'clock—Terms, 12 months credit for negotiable notes with approved endorsers.

SONG. FROM MOORE'S LALLA ROOKH. FLY to the desert, fly with me, Our Arab tents are rude for thee-

Of tents with love, or thrones without? Our rocks are rough-but smiling there, Th' acacia waves her yellow hair Lonely and sweet, nor loved the less

For flowering in a wilderness. As gracefully and gaily springs, As o'er the marble courts of kings.

Then come-thy Arab maid will be The lov'd and lone acacia-tree; The antelope, whose feet shall bless With their light sound thy loneliness. Oh! there are looks and tones that dart An instant sunshine through the heart,

As if the soul that minute caught Some treasure it through life had sought; As if the very lips and eyes, redestin'd to have all our sighs,

And never be forgot again, Sparkled and spoke before us then! So came thy every glance and tone, When first on me they breath'd and shone? New, as if brought from other spheres, Yet welcome, as if lov'd for years. Then fly with me-if thou hast known A gem away, that thou hadst sworn should ever in thy heart be worn.

Come, if the love thou hast for me Is pure and fresh as mine for thee-Fresh as the fountain under ground, When first 'tis by the lapwing found. But if for me thou dost forsake Some other maid, and rudely break Her worshipp'd image from its base,

Then fare thee well. I'd rather make

FROM THE AURORA CASTLES IN SPAIN.

We have more Spanish news, brought from the Havanna. Like all the news of the royal fabrication, it contradicts or is contradicted, by some former news .--Some time ago, a celebrated Spanish GHOST, told the public that not less than 40 patriot Mexican generals had been taken by the invincible armies of the adored Ferdinand; among whom was the very general Calzado, who is now reported to be taken, for the tenth or twelfth time. In like manner we find gen. Victoria, who is no other than gen. Guadaloupe Victoria, who was lately surrounded by the victorious royal armies near Vera Cruz, was not near Vera Cruz, but hovering about Huatusco. It requires no ghost to tell us such news as this can deceive no one in this country, though it may answer the purpose of persuading the court of Madrid what astonishing valor its generals, ambassadors, chamberlains and ghosts, are rendering it in

That our readers may understand in a still more distinct point of view the character and the integrity of the Spanish agents-we state the following facts:-When the patriot general Mina was in this country, certain spics were employed of Representatives of the United States to watch him-among whom one was a f America in Congress assembled, That | ghost-some account of which ghost and there be passed to the credit of Peyton his associate we shall give another time. The man who wrote to Spain that he of the Treasury for a balance as agent must have been hanged if he had been deof the United States for purchasing spirits | tected, was the associate of this ghost; for the army, the sum of five hundred and they followed Mina to Baltimore and wrote from thence. That " Mina had embarked with a numerous fleet, on board of which with his own eyes he saw embark 1500 men of the elite of Nanoleon's imperial guard: together with a splendid train of artillery of thirty-six brass pieces." The story is so marvellous, that our readers may be disposed to discredit it; but the fact of the letter being so written, and stating as above, is most solemnly true. It is an act of public justice to expose this nest of impostors, who by means like this, are drawing immense sums from the resources of Spain. We can specify a case in which one of these persons pocketed 70,000 dollars and probably shall give the whole particulars.

FROM THE LOUISIANA GAZETTE

MEXICO, OR NEW SPAIN. It is now three hundred years since the Spaniards first discovered these fine regions, where they afterwards established a rule as despotic as any that ever prevailed in Asia, so celebrated for the region of despotism. Until the last seven years, no attempt had ever been made to wrest from the sway of civil and religious tyranny, a country that could number six millions of inhabitants, and yielded to none for fineness of climate and native richness of soil. It was in November, 1810, if we mistake not, that the curate of Hidalgo first conceived the daring project of wresting from the Spanish monarchs the finest gem in their crown. With a mind equal to the greatness of the enterprize, in all probability he would have succeeded in rendering Mexico independent of Europe, had not treachery and individual avarice betrayed him into the hands of his foes. Not deterred by his fate, another leader offered to the insurgents; Morales took the command of the principal army of the revolutionists, and by his talents and enterprize effected much in their cause. At one time during his life, they had 60,000 men in the field, who, though not sufficiently skilled or prov ded with arms to drive the Spaniards from the cities, were mosters of all the open country and villages. Dissentions now arose among the independents, springing from personal ambition and the most sordid motives. The war languished-the Spaniards were allowed time to recover; and the reinforce-"Pil beg leave to trouble you, Sir, with a line." ments arriving from Europe, they resumed the offensive with vigor, dispersed the insurgent congress, and captured and beheaded Morales, their principal stay. Since his death, no man appears to have been found able to unite the confidence of his countrymen with ability to command. The lower classes, or mixed race, seeing no prospect of succeeding, got tired of the war, and became willing to agree to any rule, or to any masters, for the sake of peace. Aware of this disposition prevailing among their followers, those who found themselves in command of different corps or posts, became eager to make their peace with the king, and obtain terms for themselves by outstripping each other in the race of submission. Accordingly, for the last six months, the Spaniards have had more reason, from these causes, to expect a successful issue to their attempts of quelling the rebellion in every province this side of the Isthmus of Darien, than otherwise the combined power of Ferdinand and his allies could have given them.

The following is a short summary of some of the late occurrences in that quarter: On the 15th of November last, the insurgent chief Teram, with 900 men, was attacked in the town of Tehuacun, at 3 P.M. by 2000 royalists. Teram was forced to retire, with his men, to two churches in the town, where, after some resistance, he agreed to capitulate with his forces, and surrender a neighboring fort to the royalists.

About the same time Gen. Ryan, who succeeded Morales in the command of the insurgents, gave himself up with about 400 followers, and obtained the king's pardon. At the latest accounts he inhabited the capital.

About the 10th of December, General Ossono, another rebel leader, obtained the king's pardon, by submitting with 6 or 700 men. Gen. Victoria was the only insurgent chief who had not surrendered. On the 8th of June he occupied an ancient fort called Palmia, about 30 miles south west of Vera Cruz, which he defended with 450 men against 2000 of the royalists, who had been then besieging it some Herrera, who was in this city some time since, as an agent for the independents, has either delivered himself up or been taken.

It was reported at Vera Cruz in June, that Montecalla, a man of great wealth and influence in his vicinity, had raised the standard of revolt, in company with a dignitary of the church named Pierro, at a place called Aunequat, some distance to the northwest of Mexico.

In the different provinces there were numerous small predatory parties; but nothing that had the shape of an army.

It is thought that the whole Spanish regular force in Mexico, comprising the late reinforcements, does not exceed ten thousand men. Many of the towns and provinces, however, in their eagerness to wipe off all suspicion of disloyalty, were using every exertion to exterminate the

We are told by an intelligent person, a man of much observation, who had a good deal of conversation at Vera Cruz with Spaniards in authority and high rank, that they were all unanimously of opinion, and expressed it without hesita tion, that England and Spain had lately concluded an alliance for the safety and even aggrandizement of their respective dominions in America. They boasted that the Court of St. James had agreed to assist when required, the Court of Madrid in subduing the revolted colonies. They added that an opportunity would eagerly be sought after by both powers to turn their united arms against the United States; and thus blot out the only example of a successful rebellion. This is evidently the mere opinion of Ferdinand's minions, but none can doubt but that they and their master entertain any other than amicable sentiments towards this country.

BALTIMORE, AUGUST 2. BLOCKADE OF PERNAMBUCO.

Information has been received of Boston, by the arrival of the Sally Barker, from St. Salvador, that a ship had been condemned at Pernambuco for violating the blockade, and two English brigs sent into St. Salvador for the same causethat an English brig with a few casks of gunpowder on board had been taken on the coast and sent to Rio Janeiro for trial -and that all vessels found on the coast with arms and ammunition on board, were seized and sent to Rio Janeiro.

Colonel WHARTON, of the corps of engineers, has been arrested by order of the Secretary of th Navy, while on a visit to his friends in Philadelphia, in consequence of charges exhibited against him by Major HENDERSON. Histrial, we understand, will take place at Washington, on the 11th inst. and that captain STEW-ART, of the navy, is to be president of the court. Of the nature of these charges we are uninformed.

The brig Sally, of this port, has been seized at St. Salvador, under what pretence we are not informed.

It will be recollected, that on the 13th of June last, the American Society for the encouragement of Domestic Manufactures, in this city, unanimously elected John Adams, Thomas Jefferson and James Madison, members thereof, and directed their secretary to apprize them of the circumstance by letter. The following is a copy of the secretary's letter, and the answers thereto:

NEW-YORK, JUNE 14, 1817. SIR-The American Society for the encouragement of Domestic Manufactures, instituted in this city, sensible of the zeal you have uniformly displayed in the promotion of every object connected with the welfare and independence of our country, had the honor to elect you a member at their last meeting, convened on the 13th inst. for the purpose of initiating into the society James Monroe, President of the United States.

It would afford me the highest gratification to announce to the Society your assent to become one of its members.

QUINCY, JUNE 23, 1817. SIR-I have received the letter you did me the honor of writing to me on the 14th of this month, announcing to me my election, by the American Society for the encouraging Domestic Manufactures, instituted in New-York, as a member; an honor made more illustrious by the presence of the President of the United States.

Be pleased, sir, to present my respects to the society, and my thanks for the honor they have done me; and to assure them, if the best wishes of a man at eighty one years of age can promote the wise purposes of their institution, I shall be a useful member. For according to my superficial view of political economy in civilized society, next to agriculture, which is the first and most splendid, manufactures are the second, and navigation the third. With agriculture, manufaccures and navigation, all the commerce which can be necessary or useful to the happiness of a nation will be secured.

Manufactures. MONTICELLO, JUNE 26, 1817. SIR-I am thankful for the honor done me by an association with the American Society for the encouragement of Domestic Manufactures, instituted in New-York. The history of the last twenty years has been a sufficient lesson for us all to depend for necessaries on ourselves alone; and I hope that twenty years more will place the American hemisphere under a system of its own, essentially peaceable and industrious, and not needing to extract its comforts out of the eternal fires raging in the old world. MONTPELIER, JUNE 27, 1817. SIR-I have received your letter of the 18th instant, informing me that the American Society for the encouragement of Domestic Manufactures, have been pleased to elect me one of its members. Although I approve the policy of leaving to the sagacity of individuals, and to the impulse of private interest, the application of industry and capital, I am equally persuaded that in this, as in other cases, there are exceptions to the general rule, which do not impair the principle of it. Among these exceptions is the policy of encouraging domestic manufactures, within certain limits, and in reference to certain articles.

Without entering into a detailed view of the subject, it may be remarked, that every prudent nation will wish to be independent of other nations, for the necessary articles of food, of raiment, and of defence; and particular considerations, applicable to the United States, seem to strengthen the motives to this independ-

Besides the articles falling under the above description, there may be others, for manufacturing which natural advantages exist, which require temporary interpositions for bringing them into reguar and successful activity.

Where the fund of industry is acquired from abroad, and not withdrawn nor withheld from other domestic employments, the case speaks for itself.

I will only add, that among the articles of consumption and use, the preference in many cases is decided merely by fashion or habit. As far as equality, and still more, where a real superiority is found! in the articles manufactured at home, all must be sensible, that it is politic and patriotic to encourage a preference of them, as affording a more certain source of supply for every class, and a more certain market for the surplus products of the agricultural class. With these sentiments, I beg you to make my acknowledgements for the

from any hope of being useful as a member. To yourself, I tender my friendly JAMES MADISON. respects.

Mr. BARRY explained the objects of the society, and made a number of remarks in favour of the policy of encoupolicy. The following resolutions were then unanimously adopted: 1. Resolved, That Robert Wickliffe

W. T. Barry, James Cowan, Lewis Sanders, and John M. M'Calla, be a committee to prepare rules and regulations for the future government of this society; and to report the same for its adoption at the next meeting.

2. Resolved, That the officers of this institution, until otherwise provided for, consist of a President and two Vice Presidents, a Secretary and Vice Secretary.

3. Resolved, That the stated meetings of this society, shall be held on the firs Mondays in the months of January, April July and October, at the Court House in Lexington, at 10 o'clock, A. M.

4. Resolved, That W. T. Barry, T T. Barr, W. Macbean, Lewis Sanders, John Norvell, Joseph Buchanan, James Cowan, Thomas Smith, and John M M'Calla, be and they are hereby appoint Accept my thanks for the civility with ed a committee of correspondence, for the purpose of acquiring and communicating information in relation to the objects of this association, and of inviting the aid and co-operation of the enlight ened and patriotic in other parts of this state.

5. Resolved, That it be recommended to the manufacturers of this state, to vend their commodities at reasonable prices and such of them as are members of this society engage to do so, and so far as their influence extends, to encourage others to pursue a similar policy.

6. Resolved, That the members of this society, as soon as the convenience of each member will admit, will clothe themselves in Domestic Manufactures, and that they will, by advice as well as example, contribute as much as in them lies to encourage the use of the manufacture of the country, in preference to those imported from foreign countries.

The society proceeded to ballot for its officers: Robert Wickliffe, Esq. was Vice President; John Norvell, Secretary; and Dr. Joseph Buchanan, Vice Secretary. Percival Butler, jr. Esq. was appointed Secretary to the Correspondng Committee.

The Society then adjourned to the first Monday in October. B. GAINES, Chairman. JNO. NORVELL, Secretary.

INTERNAL IMPROVEMENTS.

FOR THE GAZETTE. Mr. Norvell .- You will oblige : friend to permanent internal improvenents, by noticing an article in the Port Folio, of the present month, respecting in address from the Schuylkill Naviga tion Company. There are upwards of fifty banks in the state of Pennsylvania some of immense capital and influence it was in that state, that the first bank in the United States was put in operation; these people ought to understand banking as well as the people of any other state; yet the writer in the Port Folio is convinced, that the improvement of the navigation of the Schuylkill river by locks, &c. will contribute more to benefit the commonwealth, than all the banks within its territory. If this be the fact, of which I have no doubt, how much more beneficial to this town, the adjacent counties in particular, and the state in general, would be a canal from this to the Kentucky river, (say to the mouth of Elkhorn,) than the improvement of the navigation of the Schuylkill would be to Philadelphia? That city has a noble river, the Delaware, was ning the very walls of its warehouses, affordng on the one hand navigation for ships of the largest class, and on the other for smaller craft, schooners, batteaux, boats, rafts, &c. tal of that immensely wealthy state. It is now generally admitted, that the present state of the navigation of the Kentucky river is of more injury than benefit and until it is improved by locks, it would be better to waggon the tobacco from Clarke county, &c. to Louisville, than risk its getting safe out of the Kentucky

Warehouses will be constructed for the reception of all kinds of produce; a foreigner coming to the state to make pur chases of produce, will then have it in his power to procure at one place any article he may want. This section of the country can produce tobacco, manufactured do. and cigars, hemp, spun yarns bagging, all kinds of cordage and twines flour, meal, wheat, corn, oats, buckwheat whiskey, gin, beef, pork, bacon, lard, beer, cider, coaches, hats, boots and association, a meeting on the 16th was shoes, leather, soap and tallow chandlery, saddlery, plated ware, brass do. tin and copper do. red and white lead, dry tlemen convened in the Court Room, in and in oil, fine and coarse cloths, kerseys and blankets, cotton yarn, shirting, sheeting, chambrays, bedticking, counterpanes, carpeting, fine and coarse wool, and many other articles, all of which would be brought into demand and become important articles of exportation raging domestic manufactures. Secretary Pope's" very good paper" has indiscreetly shown the cloven foot of aristocratic federalism. It distinctly intimates, that should there really be a majority of the people in favor of a new very beautiful, and said to make the best election of governor, the legislature ought to disregard the will of that maority, and decide against the measure. This is a candid avowal of the contempt which Mr. Pope and his friends feel for the people. ### Gazette Summary.

The frigate Congress, Capt. Morris, with Mr. Tyler as agent or minister on board, arrived at Port au Prince July 23. They waited on Petion, who treated them with great politeness. No negotiation took place at that time, as our consul was absent. The congress then sailed to the Cape, to see Christophe. The object of the mission is to obtain redress of injuries from both the sable chiefs.

An arrival from England, brings news to June Watson, Hooper, Thistlewood, and Preston, accused of treason, had been acquitted in the court of king's bench, by a jury. The acquittal excited almost universal satisfaction and applause. The bill to renew the suspension of habeas corpus had passed in Parliament.

POSTSCRIPT.

Extract to the Editor of the Kentucky Gazette dated

BALTIMORE, AUGUST 11.

"We have no Southern mail for the last three days; it is reported that every bridge between here and Washington has een carried away. Preparations are making to give Mr. Adams a public dinner in New-York."

Destructive Freshet.

BALTIMORE, AUGUST 11.

The rain which commenced about one clock on Saturday morning, and continued almost incessantly for twelve hours, was the heaviest and most destructive in its effects that has been witnessed here for many years. The streams in and near this city were swelled to a most astonishing height, and with so much rapidity, as precluded the possibility of securing or removing the property on their banks exposed to danger. That part of the city through which Jones' Falls passes has suffered most severely. Between eleven and twelve o'clock in the morning, when the rain was pouring down in torrents. several of the mill dams on the falls immediately above the city gave way; the height and force of the flood were thus suddenly increased, while the timber which floated down the current rendered it more destructive in its course. The upper wooden Bridge at Centre-street was swept from its abutments and lodged in a garden a short distance below. The next Bridge, also of wood, which connected Bath and Jones' streets, was moved from its place so unexpectedly, that several persons who were on it at the time had great difficulty in escaping. It was carried by the stream against the stone Bridge on Gay-street, the arches of which being too small and low to admit its passing through, it remained there, and, with the lumber that soon collected around it. so much obstructed the course of the stream, which at this place passes between rows of houses built close to the low watermargin, that it quickly rose to an alarming height in the low grounds adacent, usually called the meadow, and a number of houses were so suddenly surrounded by the flood, that the surprized inhabitants had not an opportunity of quitting them, or removing any part of their effects.

It would be impossible to convey to those who were not eye witnesses of the scene, an adequate idea of the devastation and distress which ensued; the obstructed stream forced its way through the lots on its south-western bank into Holiday and Fish streets; through the latter it rushed nto Gay-street, and, its course being ob tructed by the houses on the east side of Gay-street, which front the opening of Fish-street, was diverted partly into Frederick but chiefly into Harrison street, which runs parallel with the bed of the falls, a portion of the current passing along that street to the market space, and thence into the Basin.

The women and children in the houses surrounded by the flood were seen at the stances admitted. Boats were carried on drays from the Basin to the scene of distress, and the unfortunate sufferers relieved from their perilous situation.

The impetuosity of the flood was so great, as, in many instances, to force open the doors and windows of the houses, and passing through them carried with it numerous articles of furniture. The pavements in several streets were torn up; poard. On the third day afterwards the was the pavement removed, but the Firebrand fell in with her, destitute of all earth nearly to their foundations, a depth with. Being then within a day and a parts of houses, mills, mill dams and were seen floating indiscriminately down the stream.

The most afflicting part of this heavy calamity is the loss of the lives of several persons, who were unfortunately drowned, in some instances by attempting to this disparage them? Their proceeds will not save the persons or property of their felsave the persons or property of their fellow-citizens. We have not yet heard with certainty the number of lives lost, nor can it perhaps be ascertained for some days. We regret also to learn that several horses were drowned in their stables, the sudden rise of the water rendering it mpracticable to save them.

merous to particularize; several of them we learn are very severe; and, there are some instances of distressed families, who, having literally lost every thing, claim, and we hope will receive, the prompt attention of the humane citizens. In addition to the damages above menioned, we have to state, that the upper railing and part of the arches of the stone bridge in Gay-street are destroyed, the wooden bridges between Market and Pratt-streets are carried away, and the stone bridge on Pratt-street somewhat injured—one of the stone bridges over Harford Run is nearly destroyed; one first magistrate of the nation, the ruler of half the bridge at Ellicott's Mills on the eight millions of people, descend from Frederick-town Turnpike Road was carhis elevated office, and mingle with his ried away, and in its passage injured the new bridge lately erected by Mr. Smith on the Washington Road, which will require some repairs before it is again passFROM SOUTH AMERICA.

Capt. WILLIAMS, arrived at Salem, from Mar-inique, on Sunday last, informs, that the latest ccounts from the Spanish Maine represent, hat in consequence of the reinforcement of 2000 men, received by the royalists, about four months since from Old Spain, they were enabled to retake the island of Margaretta. The army of Gen. BOLIVAR had received a check on the Maine, at Curapano and Guayra, opposite said island, and he had again deserted his comrades and gone to St. Thomas, having had a dif-ference with the second in command. The army previously commanded by him, had narched into the interior and joined Gen. Plan, who had lately reduced the city of Augustura

Admiral Brion sailed from Margaretta preious to the attack on that place by the royalists to blockade the river Oronoko, taking with him his whole naval force, consisting, according to some accounts, of 22 sail, and it is certain that he stopped at Grenada for provisions, having with him seventeen sail, among which wer three heavy brigs. Recent accounts from Tri-nidad state that nine sail of his fleet were cruizng in the Gulf of Paria, between Trinidad and

LATEST FROM AMELIA ISLAND. Capt. Dugan, of the brig Commodore Deca-ur, arrived at New York on Saturday last, in five days from Amelia, informs, that about 11 o'clock the evening before he sailed, the royalists began to storm the place, and kept up an uninterrupted fire with small arms and six pounders for several hours. The force of M GREGOR is said to consist of only about 200 men The morning on which the firing ceased, the patriot flag was still flying, but the final resu not known. M'GREGOR had a large armed bri and several schooners at Amelia, one of which had carried in a brigunder French colors, loaded with coffee, on suspicion of its being Spa nish property, and it was thought it would be

PENMAMSHIP.

" Ars artium omnium conservatrix." MR. HOWARD, having taught the art of Penmanship in some of the first schools and academies in the United States with sucess, has now the honor of tendering his ser-nices to the inhabitants of Lexington. His node being on the improved Analytical System, ensures a facility and elegance of hand, n a short space of time, and demonstrates that the art is worthy of the rank it holds in the circles of polite and useful knowledge. The usual tedious and unsatisfactory methods of intruction are thereby obviated. The art is resolved into its pure original principles agreeably to the nicest discriminations of good taste, and calculated to restrain those deviations of aprice so inimical to the elegance and utility
